

DISABILITY LAW
COLORADO™

For the first time voters with a disability may access and vote using an electronic ballot in Colorado.

- 1) The voter will first need to decide if they are eligible for this service. A voter who has a disability under the Americans with Disabilities Act is eligible to vote an electronic ballot under Colorado law.
- 2) If the voter is eligible and wants to vote an electronic ballot, they should visit <https://myballot.sos.colorado.gov>. Once on the website, it will guide them through the process of voting their ballot online.
- 3) Once they have completed voting online, the website will prompt them to print both their ballot and an electronic ballot application form. The application form should be filled in with their information, so all the voter will need to do is sign the application.
- 4) The voter should place both the ballot and the printed application in an envelope, write “Ballot enclosed” on the envelope, and return the envelope to their county clerk either at a drop box, a voter service and polling center, or through the mail. It is really important that the voter includes the signed application with their ballot, because that is how their county clerk will identify them and count their ballot.
- 5) Voters can visit www.govotecolorado.com to update their voter registration information (which they will need to be updated to access the online system). They can also visit that website to find their nearest voter service and polling center and drop box.
